Clinical Psychology Practice

WGCPP aims to provide community access to high quality mental health services, to promote wellness, and foster a supportive team environment for patients and clinicians.

The provision of a quality service is a responsibility taken seriously and is evidenced by a commitment to ongoing training and professional development via workshop, seminar, and conference attendance.

As a member of the Australian Psychological Society (APS), we seek to deliver our comprehensive service with excellence, compassion, competence, and integrity.

Clinical Psychology Practice

WGCPP is a Brisbane-based clinical psychology practice with a team of Clinical Psychologists who offer evidence-based, best-practice treatment for a range of mental health concerns and diagnosed psychological disorders.

Consultant Psychiatrists are available to offer assessment and treatment.

Both our Toowong and Clayfield Practices are conveniently located near public transport and parking.

At WGCPP, we aim to offer a comprehensive service, which includes Clinical Psychologists, a Clinical Neuropsychologist, Child Psychologists and Consultant Psychiatrists.

Our Practice is able to treat a broad range of mental health concerns and clinically-diagnosable disorders that significantly interfere with an individual's cognitive, emotional, social, or occupational functioning. Examples include:

Phobic disorders

Generalised Anxiety disorder

Adjustment disorder

Posttraumatic stress disorder

Panic disorder

Obsessive Compulsive disorder

Depression

Co-occurring anxiety and depression

Alcohol use disorders

Drug use disorders

Sleep problems

Relationship problems

Eating disorders

Child & Adolescent behaviour problems

Neuropsychological assessment

All of our Psychologists have Masters- or Doctoral-level training in Clinical Psychology, and a commitment to ongoing professional development.

Individual and group treatment is offered at the practice.
